Make-up Assessments: An Academic Consideration Request may, at the instructor's discretion, result in a make-up assessment. You must consult with your instructor for details on arranging for make-up midterm test or final exam. The make-up exam may be in the form of a one-on-one oral or online written exam at the discretion of the instructor that will be administered by the TA under the instructor's agreement.

IMPORTANT: If your absence is for a longer period, or you miss your midterm or final exam due to health issues or religious observance, you need to follow the instructions below:

- Medical certificates – If a student misses the deadline for submitting an assignment, or the date of an exam or other evaluation component because of illness, he or she must submit a Ryerson Student Medical Certificate AND an Academic Consideration form within 3 working days of the missed date. Students who miss an assessment due to cold or flu-like symptoms, or due to self-isolation, are currently not required to provide a health certificate. Other absences must follow Policy 167: Academic Consideration. Academic Consideration does allow for a once per term academic consideration request without supporting documentation if the absence is less than 3 days in duration and is not for a final exam/final assessment. In both of those instances, documentation is required. For more information please see Senate Policy 167: Academic Consideration.

Important:

- The Academic Consideration Request (ACR) online form (<https://www.ryerson.ca/senate/StudentInfo/AcademicConsiderationRequest/>) must be used by all undergraduate students in the Faculty of Science, Ted Rogers School of Management (TRSM), Faculty of Engineering & Architectural Science (FEAS), with the exception of the Electrical Engineering program, and Faculty of Arts (FoA).
- Students in all other Ryerson programs, and students taking courses in the G. Raymond Chang School of Continuing Education, must submit their request for academic consideration on health grounds by completing the Academic Consideration Document Submission Form (https://www.ryerson.ca/content/dam/senate/forms/academic_consideration_document_submission.pdf), along with a completed Student Health Certificate (or letter from an appropriate regulated health professional), <https://www.ryerson.ca/content/dam/senate/forms/medical.pdf>.
- Religious observance – If a student needs accommodation because of religious observance, he or she must submit a Request for Accommodation of Student Religious, Aboriginal and Spiritual Observance AND an Academic Consideration form within the first 2 weeks of the class or, for a final examination, within 2 weeks of the posting of the examination schedule. If the required absence occurs within the first 2 weeks of classes, or the dates are not known well in advance as they are linked to other conditions, these forms should be submitted with as much lead time as possible in advance. If you are a full-time or part-time student or school, if you are a certificate or diploma student, please bring this to the staff at the front desk of the Chang School.

Students who need academic accommodation support should contact the Academic Accommodation Support office (formerly called the Access to Learning office). If your final graded work is due, registered students should inform their instructors through an "Accommodation Form for Professors" that they are registered with Academic Accommodation Support and what accommodations are required.

Communication with Students:

Ryerson's email policy <http://www.ryerson.ca/content/dam/senate/policies/pol157.pdf> states that only Ryerson e-mail accounts are to be used for communication with students. All students, including continuing education students, have access to Ryerson email through their my.ryerson.ca site, and this is the official way in which they receive communication. All students are required to register for and maintain this account. Emails sent from other accounts may not be answered!

▷ Students are responsible for logging on to the instructor's course website, and for following all course related instructions so transmitted. Students should also check their emails (ryerson.ca_email as per academic policy) daily for any notices from the professor and are responsible for following any directives so sent.

▷ As course topics are typically developed based on material from previous lectures, students are strongly urged to attend ALL classes. If you miss any material due to illness or other unavoidable circumstance, be sure to catch up before the next class. Many studies have demonstrated that class attendance is the best predictor of success in any class.

▷ Test marks and attendance credits will be available on the Brightspace/D2L course shell. As per Ryerson regulation, final grades will be disclosed only by the registrar's office.

Rules and regulations:

The rules and regulations are for the enjoyment and respect of everyone in the class including yourself. Thank you very much for abiding by them:

- ▷ Please refrain of talking during the lecture online. Everybody needs to hear correctly. If you feel the urge to talk, you are invited to step out of the zoom classroom.
- ▷ Please shut down you cell phone or put it in vibrating mode during the lecture. If you are expecting an important call, and do not have a vibrating function, please answer it immediately and step out of the zoom classroom to talk (turning your microphone to mute all the time).
- ▷ Please arrive on time, class will promptly begin at :10. If you arrive late or have to leave early, please do so quietly and be nice to your peers online.
- ▷ Please be reminded that the Teaching Assistants (TAs) are the representatives of the professor in the lab sessions. You are to treat the TAs with respect.
- ▷ Emails to your professor should always begin with a greeting (Dear Dr. A, Dear Professor B) and be written in proper English (no chat room lingo please). You should also always indicate your name (family, given in that order), course (CPS125) and section number in all communications. You must always use your ryerson.ca email to communicate with your professor. Messages sent from other email addresses (gmail, hotmail, ...) or missing proper identification as noted just above likely will not be read. Do not use your Student Identification Number unless specifically requested. Messages to the lab teaching assistants mu

In order to create an environment conducive to learning and respectful of others' rights, phones and pagers must be silenced during lectures, lab sessions and evaluations. Students should refrain from disrupting the lectures by arriving late and/or leaving the classroom before the lecture is finished.

Academic Misconduct:

According to the Ryerson policy 60 (<http://www.ryerson.ca/content/dam/senate/policies/pol60.pdf>), academic misconduct includes, but is not limited to:

- Plagiarism which is the claiming of words, ideas, artistry, drawings or data of another person. This also includes submitting your own work in whole or in part for credit in two or more courses.
- Cheating
- Misrepresentation of personal identity or performance
- Submission of false information
- Contributing to academic misconduct
- Damaging, tampering, or interfering with the scholarly environment
- Unauthorized copying or use of copyrighted materials
- Violations of departmental policies or professional behavior
- Violations of specific departmental or course requirements

Committing academic misconduct will trigger academic penalties, including:

- A course-grade reduction that may be more severe than assigning a grade of “zero” (0) on course work; for a student, you are expected to follow the University's policies.
- Cheating and plagiarism: If a student is found to have committed academic misconduct, an extra 5% penalty on the final grade will be assigned. If a student is found to have committed academic misconduct, an extra 5% penalty on the final grade will be assigned. If a student is found to have committed academic misconduct, an extra 5% penalty on the final grade will be assigned.
- It is strictly forbidden to make recordings or take pictures during the lectures. It is also forbidden to redistribute the slides, the labs, the projects and other material found on the official course website, the professors' websites and D2L. Individuals found doing so will be charged with academic misconduct and could be prosecuted for copyright violations under the Copyright Act of Canada.

Automatic Plagiarism Detection:

In this course, we will use Turnitin plagiarism Checking tool with submitted work. Students who do not want their work submitted to this plagiarism detection service must, by the end of the second week of class, consult with the instructor to make alternate arrangements.”; or the details of alternate arrangements including the deadlines for consultation with the instructor concerning the use of these arrangements.

Non-Academic Conduct:

Ryerson's Student Code of Non-academic Conduct is described in Senate Policy 61:

<http://www.ryerson.ca/content/dam/senate/policies/pol61.pdf>

Among many other infractions, the code specifically refers to the following as a violation: "Disruption of Learning and Teaching - Students shall not behave in disruptive ways that obstruct the learning and teaching environment".

Diversity and Inclusion Statement:

In this course, I would like to create a learning environment that supports a diversity of thoughts, perspectives and experiences, and honors your identities (including race, gender, class, sexuality, religion, ability, etc.). Please feel free to reach out with any issues regarding to this. For more information about our University's resources and services on Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion please visit <https://www.ryerson.ca/equity/>

Changes:

Modifications to the course procedures will be made in consultation with the students and will be announced on D2L course shell.
